School is finally out and that means summer is just around the corner! There are so many fun activities to do once summer arrives, but that doesn’t mean your wallet has to suffer. If you are like me, a poor college student, you know how important it is to have a budget. There are some benefits of being a student, such as tons of student discounts at places you didn’t even know!

Things to do:

- The Living Planet Aquarium in Draper offers a student discount of about $3 off.
- Red Butte Garden general admission is free.
- Kingsbury Hall tickets are $5 for performances for matriculated students.

Places to eat:

- If you eat at Chipotle or Chick-fil-A you can receive a free drink with purchase and a valid student ID.
- Subway is great because at some locations they offer a 10% off your entire purchase, be sure to ask!
- Also, the U has a starving student card which offers tons of discounts and free activities all for only $30.

Where to shop:

- If you are an online shopper, be sure to sign up for Amazon Student. This offers many awesome deals especially if you shop there a lot. It is very similar to Amazon Prime and it is free!
- Trying to buy a new apple product? Make sure you ask them about their student offers or check out their website for Apple Education Pricing. You can save up to $200 on a new Mac!
• Ann Taylor offers 20% off to students with valid I.D.
• Charlotte Russe and Steve Madden are two other great stores that offer 10% off purchases. Discount is only valid at some locations.
• Urban Outfitters also offers a 10% discount to students periodically throughout the year. Sign up to receive OU emails to know what dates the discount will apply.

The number one tip is to always ask wherever you go. You never know what kind of discounts you will get for being a student or teacher!
